A 'cube' is a 3x3x3 crossword, containing 12 words, with one black square on each face. Two such cubes can be derived from this grid.

Each cube is constructed from two 3x3 squares, each containing four words (a 'top' and a 'bottom'), with a 3x3 square of four corner letters completing the four verticals sandwiched between.

Both cubes use the same 'sandwich' letters and all five 3x3 blocks are in the completed grid.

In 24 clues, there is a redundant word which defines one of the entries in the cubes.

For ease of submission, solvers will enter the eight vertical cube entries in alphabetical order.
